Title: Exceptional delivery, exceptional product.

Comments: ~3 day delivery from UAE to FL Panhandle. Had them changed to the enlisted variant pre-shipping. I do not use my pair for re-enacting, I use them for day-to-day dress. Cut is exceptional. ~16" rise (44), very nice full cut. Could be a little fuller for my taste but that's subjective. I had a pair of Hart Schaffner Marx MTM trousers made for me and these EASILY beat them ten fold. For context that's an ~80 dollar pair of trousers beating a 300 dollar pair of trousers by a significant margin. Fabric is sturdy and feels tough yet breathes enough to be worn in low-mid 90s with moderate-high humidity. Bottom line, these are exceptional trousers at an exceptional price. I will be purchasing more from this company in the future.

Title: Good stuff!

Product Reviews

Comments: Excellent product, very well made. I do first-person interpretation, and I'll be happy wearing my WPG Army summer khakis in the invasion of Saipan (at the American Heritage Museum). Be sure to order 1 or 2 sizes larger than your modern clothing; my my modern 32 waist needs 36 in these trousers.

Title: Amazing trousers, bad zippers

Comments: The trousers are great. A very good, sturdy fabric, nice cut, perfectly wearable not just as a part of uniform, but as civilian trousers as well. Unfortunately, the zipper never stays closed. Whatever you do, it will start opening on its own eventually.

Title: Authentic and versatile

Comments: These are really great trousers. I hem these with a 2" cuff and wear them as civilian trousers with a 40s sport coat. Perfect! Hoping Mr. Lee will consider having these made up in Navy Blue.

Title: Outstanding trousers at exceptional price!

Comments: If you're seeking authentic WW2 khakis with a period-correct pattern and a high-rise waist, these pants are a steal. I own both Buzz Rickson's and Bronson's versions of the same trouser (each of which cost more than twice as much as the WPG's), and I prefer the WPG's over both. These are a truly outstanding value in my opinion.

Title: All good

Comments: Hey you guys. The kakis this time came as you said with 34" inseam which I was able to let out another inch and a half to completely cover these long skinny legs i've Been saddled with. So, I thank you and more importantly the people that happen to look my way are saved the view of may spindly ankles. Needless to say, my arms are close to that of an orangutan so if you ever produce any shirts or jackets that have 36" arms let me know pronto. Have a good summer. Bob

Title: Length

Product Reviews

Comments: Love the pants and WPG. Even with the hem taken down the inseam only came to a bit over 33'. Me I got these long legs. I wrote to WPG and they assured me that they have asked the factory to produce ALL lengths at 34. So hopefully i will have an inch or so to let down to get me to my desired 35 with a bit left to make a new hem. I am ordering a new pair , will report on the results for all you tall guys out there how want a great pair of kakis!
We live in hope,

Title: Value for mony.

Comments: These trousers are good value for money. One point of criticism is the placement of the waist buttonhole. In my opinion it is too close to the centerline with the result that the zipper comes under tension and opens partly spontaneously. I corrected this by moving the button sideways for about 2 cm. This problem could (and should) be easily corrected by clear instructions to the manufacturer.

Title: perfect match for officer's cotton khaki shirt
Comments: Shrinkage was minimal, but get them commercially laundered before altering. The rise is long and the legs are wide, but that's how trousers looked in the 1940's.

Product Reviews

Comments: These are heavy cloth, and a nice colour. They're true to the dimensions given, not vanity sized, and they're a really nice cut... high waist, and wide legged but not baggy in the rear, actually pretty trim. And they're cheaper than anything else half decent...

Title: US Office Khaki Trousers

Comments: I'm not a reenactor, but I wear several WPG products for a 1920s-40s inspired civilian look. These trousers are perfect for that, with the high-waist, generous period cut. Not like these tapered-legged junksqueezers a man is forced to wear nowadays! At the same time, these trousers are not as extremely baggy as the British officer KD trousers. Well made, good fabric, compliments to the people in Pakistan who make these for WPG! Customer service 1st class as usual.

Title: Officer's Khaki Trousers
Comments: Very well constructed. Tailored with the period-correct high-waist and includes period pocketwatch pocket on right side (good place a Zippo lighter if you don't have a pocketwatch). Material matches the Officer's khaki shirt, and if you need to shorten the length of the pants, you can use the extra material to make epauletts for the enlisted men's version of the shirt.

Title: Fine Trousers.

Comments: Reminds one of wearing these and lounging in a hammock looking out over der Friesches Nierung at the Baltic Sea in the thirties. These trousers are authentic in cut and high riseres, just like we like them: proper. Rear pockets are cut a little too narrow for men with robust Goerring-like fingers and wide wallets. Are they perfect: Hell No. What is? You best ordre at least seven pair at these prices and quality.
